Dressed in Clay – Guy Hivroni

I create ceramic sculptures that beautifully interpret our culture, memories, and desires through clothing. My works delve into how clothing conveys identity, emotions, and social status without directly depicting the person. Each piece reflects the individual's inner world, inviting viewers to complete a meaningful narrative.

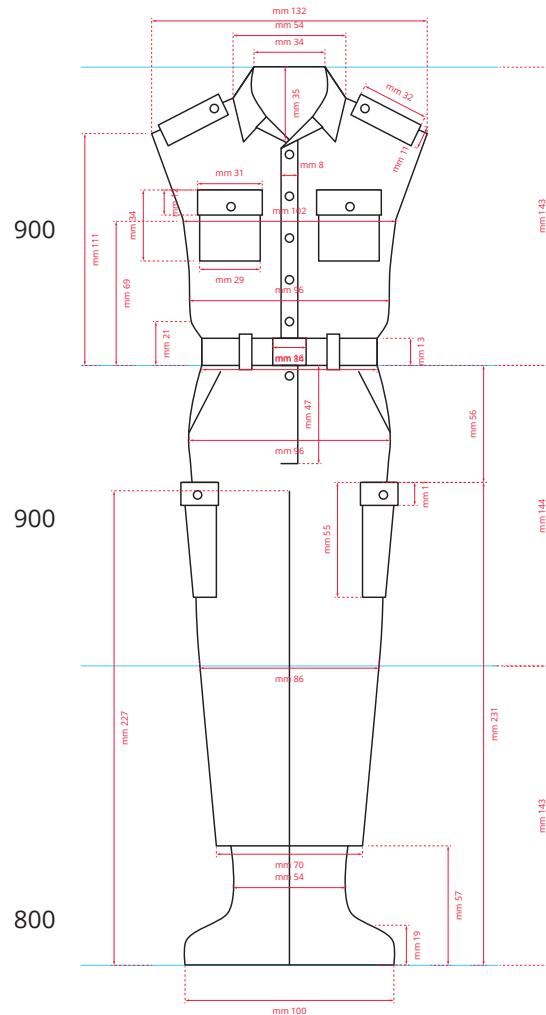

Crafted through wheel throwing and meticulous handwork, my sculptures foster a dialogue between the viewer and the artwork. Through the form and materiality of each garment, I create a profound space that balances presence and absence, encouraging reflection on the human connections between body and clothing.

Driven by love for people, I aim to unveil the hidden memories and emotions within them. I inspire those who seek meaning in the unseen, reminding us that sometimes, absence is the most powerful part of the story.
